

Truckee-Carson Irrigation District

Newlands Project

MEMORANDUM

June 13, 2011

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

The Truckee-Carson Irrigation District (TCID) is a contractor engaged in the operation and maintenance of the Newlands Federal Reclamation Project (Project). TCID's duties include the care and protection of Project facilities including earthen canals and drains. TCID, in an effort to protect such canals and drains from damage by gopher activity, and any consequential damage to property owners within the Project, encourages, informally, the elimination of gophers by providing a bounty of FIFTY CENTS ($0.50) for each gopher tail presented at the TCID office. Funding for gopher bounties by TCID is derived primarily from the assessments paid by water users within the Project; and, TCID owes all of its water users the highest level of trust and responsibility when expending its funds. TCID owes no legal or contractual duty to protect lands outside of the Project from harm caused by animal burrowing activity.
